FURTHER AGREEMENTS

Termination of Course

Hola Lola Studio reserves the right to terminate the course for any student who fails to adhere to our rules, safety measures, or displays disrespectful behavior towards teachers or fellow students. We have a zero-tolerance policy for any form of disrespect. In the event that we deem it necessary to terminate a student's contract, we will refund the remaining balance for any classes that have not yet been completed and administration costs. Any unfinished coursework or materials may be collected by the student upon termination of the contract.

Pickup

We fire your pieces various times during the course. Some of your pieces will be done during the course, and some pieces will be fired after the final day of class. The teacher will inform you when the pieces are ready for pick-up. We kindly ask you to follow the instructions provided by your teacher.

Due to the number of students and workshops, our shelves tend to fill up quickly. While we want to remain flexible and give you enough time to schedule a pick-up, we ask you to pick up all the pieces within 5 weeks of notification or your last class. We will send out reminders through our Whatsapp group and hold on to your pieces as long as possible. Nevertheless, we organise several “shelve clear outs” a year where we will dispose of all the pieces that have not been picked up.

Pick-up times

Pick up can be done at the beginning or end of classes (see our schedule online) Please contact your teacher for any possible exceptions. Once you have scheduled your pick up, make sure to bring some wrapping paper, bags and/or boxes to transport them safely.

What if my piece breaks?

During classes we will provide information on all the steps it takes to finish your piece. In any case, it is always possible that - due to unforeseen circumstances - your piece chips or breaks. Ceramics is a volatile and complicated process where your pieces are subject to various external circumstances. It is therefore possible that your piece experiences some breakage along the way. If we can fix this, the teachers will do everything possible to repair your piece. If, however, this is not possible, we kindly ask for your understanding. Additionally, we can teach you how to repair the broken piece or you can simply make something new. Luckily you will have the time and experience to make a new piece!

Kiln costs

If you are a member of the Clay Collective or follow a course, kiln costs apply. Kiln costs are the costs for firing and glazing your pieces. The kiln uses a lot of energy and the costs depend on how much you make and how much space your pieces take up in the kiln. The costs are determined by measuring your pieces after the glaze fire. In the studio we have a special measuring table with costs based on size. Please inform your teacher or contact person and they will send you a digital payment request.

Waitlist

If you are interested in a class and the class is full or the current course is not finished yet, we can place you on our waitlist. We ask for your phone number and email so we can contact you once a spot opens up or the new course starts. We prioritise current students and allow them to maintain their spot in the next course. If certain spots open up, we consult the waitlist and will reach out. You will receive some general information on the course and we will ask you if you still wish to join. If so, we will send you an invoice and the aforementioned cancellation rules apply. If for any reason you do not wish to be on the waitlist anymore, we kindly ask you to inform us as soon as possible. It saves us some admin and logistical work, thanks in advance!

Safety measures

We welcome new participants with open arms in our studio. We hope you enjoy clay just as much as we do. In order to have a pleasurable experience, we have some rules in the studio. As we are working with machines, kilns, glazes and other sharp tools, it is crucial to work in an orderly manner. At the beginning of a workshop or course we go through these safety measures and rules. We therefore kindly appreciate everyone being on time. Ceramics is a learning process and the teachers will always make sure you work safely. We therefore ask you to pay attention, listen to your teacher and in general be attentive to what you are doing. Ultimately we want everyone to be safe and to be able to enjoy the process of clay.

Who can participate?

We wish our studio to be an open and safe space and welcome anyone who is interested in learning about clay. We kindly ask you to follow our safety measures and read our terms & conditions and follow our other general agreements. We welcome all participants from the ages 12 and up as we work with certain tools and machines that are not suitable for kids. People who are pregnant can join the class, however, further in the pregnancy the belly might get in the way of using the wheel (comfortably). People who have back pain or injuries might experience some pain whilst using the kiln as the position is quite inclined. We would advise to start with handbuilding as this can be done on a different type of chair or standing up. Please consider this when signing up and ask for our advice through the contact form if needed.

People who have respiratory issues might experience some discomfort when in the studio as the materials (glaze, clay and ceramic dust) can be quite fine. We clean the studio after every class and have several deep cleans throughout the year, but depending on your sensitivity, it might affect you differently. We ask everyone in the studio to prioritise their health at all times. We will make sure gloves and masks are provided for everyone that requires them.
